

Dr. McGlothlin Remains With Furman.

The following letter from Dr. McGlothlin to Mr. Jon A. Russel, president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, explains itself. It will be read by the thousands who love Furman, and read with thanksgivings. The Baptists throughout the State as well as the citizens of Greenville should know the reasons and motives which have led Dr. McGlothlin in reaching his decision, and these can be seen in the letter to Mr. Russell. It follows:

Mr. John A. Russell,
Chamber of Commerce,
Greenville, S. C.

My Dear Mr. Russell:

Please accept my sincere thanks for your letter of recent date in which you urged me on behalf of yourself and the Chamber of Commerce to remain in Greenville as president of Furman University. Your kind words have been deeply appreciated. Such assurances of interest and support on the part of the citizens of Greenville have materially aided me in reaching a decision as to what course I ought to pursue. The presidency of William Jewell college, with the high standards and great potential resources of the institution, made a strong appeal, but I have decided to remain with Furman. The more important reasons for this decision are the following:

1. My affection for the college, the town and the state. I have been a citizen of Greenville only three years, but so warm was the reception accorded me and my family and so generous has been my treatment during these years that we have become warmly attached to our new home. Nothing but a compelling sense of duty or opportunity could tear us away from it.

2. A feeling that I should remain with Furman at least during the present program of growth and expansion. While the length of our tenure of office was of course not stipulated when I accepted the presidency of the institution, still our five-year program is but little past the middle and it might retard the growth of the institution to change administrations at this time.

3. The hope that the citizens of Greenville would unite with me in an effort to build here a really great institution which will be a mighty asset in the future growth and welfare of Greenville and the state of South Carolina. Furman is located in Greenville. It has been here nearly three quarters of a century. Most of the money which has been expended upon its buildings and by its students and faculty has come from outside Greenville. And yet during these years it has been making a larger contribution to Greenville than to any other part of the state. It has educated many of the sons of Greenville. It has attracted able young men from elsewhere to make their homes in our city. It has spent much money here. It has continuously advertised Greenville far and wide. I think its value to Greenville cannot be disputed, and I cherish a great hope that the men and women of means who are benevolent and forward-looking will support the institution in such a way as to assure its future growth and immortality.

Some two years ago the General Education Board of New York offered to give to the endowment of the institution the sum of $175,000 if its other friends would raise $325,000, thus adding a total of half a million dollars to the endowment. Up to the present very little has been done toward meeting this great offer. This delay was caused by the serious financial depression through which our state with others, has been passing. But the period in which our part of the half million is to be raised is rapidly passing. Something like two years remain in which to complete the raising of the funds necessary to meet the great offer of the General Education Board. Can this amount be raised? Will the enlightened, wealthy, forward-looking men of Greenville help me? This is the question which has revolved itself over and over in my mind as I have considered the possibilities of the future, and hope that such will be the case has kept me in Greenville. I ask nothing for myself. I only ask that Greenville and South Carolina will unite to build a great and worthy educational institution in this city for the education of the young men of this and adjoining states and for the service of man and of God. Greenville is sure to be a great industrial center. In the midst of this material growth will it also support worthily those institutions which are necessary to keep up the moral and spiritual life of its people? I hope that it may be so and that hope has kept me in Greenville.

And so, Mr. Russell, I am here—here to work for Furman, here to work for Greenville, here to work for South Carolina. You and those whom you represent constitute the core of Greenville's human resources. I shall earnestly crave your support in my efforts to build this institution, which I think may mean more to Greenville than any other within its borders.

Again thanking you, I am,
Cordially yours,
W. J. McGlothlin.

Lumpy, Curdled or Stringy Milk From Cow's Udder.

Large numbers of letters are received describing udder troubles in cows. The one most commonly complained of is that lumpy or stringy milk is given from one or more teats. In some cases the udder swells, while in others there has been for some time a "lump" or hard part in the udder. Sometimes just the lumpy milk is reported and it comes on at intervals of two or three weeks and after a few days disappears to come again after a time.

These conditions indicate more or less irritation in the udder or an old inflammation which has left sufficient irritation to cause the trouble.

Of course, these troubles are probably due to some infection or "germs," but irregular milking, failure to milk clean, high feeding on rich concentrates, blows or injuries, muddy yards and dirty stables may indirectly excite the trouble.

In most cases there is little or no swelling of the udder and when it occurs it usually disappears rather quickly, except there is left in the udder a hard or firm portion which can only be detected by handling the udder. We suggest regular and careful milking twice a day. After stripping the affected portion of the udder dry, massage, knead, or hand rub that portion for 10 or 15 minutes and strip dry again. If the cow is being fed heavily on grains or rich concentrates, reduce the quantity. Keep the surroundings clean. Of course, when the udder becomes inflamed or is swollen, hot and painful, frequent bathing in cold water in summer and warm water in winter may be beneficial. It may also be beneficial to rub with a mixture of turpentine and lard or camphor and lard. Or better than these, a mixture of three parts each of fluid extract of belladonna and tincture of iodine and five parts each of alcohol and water, may be well rubbed into the affected portion two or three times a day.—Progressive Farmer.

Homicides in 1921 in South Carolina Totaled 301.

Columbia, July 11.—Suicides in South Carolina in 1921 totaled 17, or at the rate of 4.5 per 1,000 of population, according to figures taken from the bureau of records of the bureau of vital statistics. In 1920 the total number of suicides was 58, which was a rate of 3.4 per 1,000 of population.

Homicides in 1921 totaled 3001, which was a rate of 17.5 per 1,000 of population. The number of homicides in 1920 was 156, or a rate of 15.2. These figures have recently been compiled by the bureau of vital statistics, of which C. Wilson Miller is chief clerk.

Legal electrocutions in 1921 totaled seven, or a rate of .41 per 1,000 of population. In 1920 the number of legal electrocutions was three, or a rate of .17.

Deaths from automobile accidents in 1921 numbered 62, or a rate of 3.6 per 1,000 of population. The number of deaths from automobile accidents in 1920 was 82, which was a rate of 4.9 per 1,000.

Deaths from railroad accidents in 1921 totaled 58, or a rate of 3.4. In 1920 deaths from such accidents totaled 63, which was a rate of 3.7 per 1,000.

Lightning killed almost twice as many people in the state in 1921 as in 1920. In 1921 the number of deaths from lightning was 25 and in 1920 the number was 14.
